

This is the seventh year for Gerry Pollard's Officiating camp and it is now widely recognized as the top development and training officiating camp in the country. Gerry and his highly trained staff work very hard at making each official better. This camp is developed for officials to learn the principles of officiating and 3-man mechanics and is designed for new officials and officials trying to move up the ladder of officiating.

Personally, Gerry is a product of the camp system as most of the clinicians are and the hard work and commitment has paid off.

Gerry just completed his 25th year of officiating and it was capped off by his 3rd Sweet 16 assignment in the NCAA tournament in the last four years. Gerry also was recently named the Coordinator of Officials for the NCAA Division II Great Lakes Valley Conference to go along with coordinating officials in the American Midwest Conference and Region 16 JUCO in Missouri.

Officials need to continue to improve each and every year. This camp is designed to show you "how to referee" the correct way. It is a must if you want to be the best official you can be!
